fig 1. Our smallest bike, for our smallest Kona people. The Makena features 20” wheels and 7005 Aluminium for easy handling, and learning, not an overweight liability like many bikes available for kids, but a really nice bike for first timers.

fig 2. A bigger bike than the Makena, the Hula has standard 24” wheels on a 13” frame, and comes with a slightly better component package.

fig 3. The Stuff Jr (that’s pronounced J...R, not junior) is a mini powerhouse for the inspired young rider. Like the Hula, the Stuff Jr comes with 24” wheels and a Marzocchi front fork. A fairly serious bike for kids flying through the air at a park near you.
